

Fourth Dan Instructor Tina Fuller began learning martial arts in 1996 in Vulcan, Michigan under Third Dan Instructor Leonard Anderson with her son, Keenan when he was seven years old. She received her First Dan in 2003 in ITF TKD under Grand Master Yung Sam Kim: 7th Degree Black Belt who established the first Tae Kwon Do school in Green Bay, Wisconsin in 1973.

In 2003, established a martial arts school in Gwinn, MI called Black Dragon Tae Kwon do where she began teaching students ranging from six years old to adults. Fuller also returned to her original school in Vulcan, MI as head instructor after the death of Mr. L. Anderson to help his remaining students complete their ranking goals.

In 2009, formed Black Dragon Martial Arts Club to train at-risk youth with the outstanding values the martial arts have to offer. She puts a lot of emphasis on training and discipline. Her classes offer a safe training environment to anyone who enters the training floor. She also has been involved with teaching students with various disabilities including deaf, blind, and amputations. Her greatest pride was to see one of her young handicapped adults take on the challenge of competing in weaponry (Bo) at a local competition and without the use of hands, seeing him place in the top 3 in his division against non-handicapped competitors. Judges were not aware of his handicap until he accepted his award.

Fuller strongly believes that anyone can achieve greatness in the martial arts if they are encouraged. It is the responsibility of the instructor to take the time and effort to help them achieve it.

Apart from teaching martial arts at various locations in the Upper Peninsula of Michigan, Fuller offers various services to the community. Through Black Dragon Martial Arts she hosts self-defense seminars and has led martial art demonstrations at several local events for youth as well as promoted several martial art tournaments.
